1ST SESSION

H. R. 4092

To improve United States consideration of, and strategic support for, programs to prevent and respond to gender-based violence from the onset of humanitarian emergencies and build the capacity of humanitarian assistance to address the immediate and long-term challenges resulting from such violence, and for other purposes.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

JULY 30, 2019

Ms. MENG (for herself, Mr. STEWART, Ms. FRANKEL, Mr. DIAZ-BALART, and Ms. HOULAHAN) introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs

A BILL

To improve United States consideration of, and strategic support for, programs to prevent and respond to gender-based violence from the onset of humanitarian emergencies and build the capacity of humanitarian assistance to address the immediate and long-term challenges resulting from such violence, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Safe from the Start 5 Act of 2019”.

1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

2 Congress finds the following:

3 (1) Displaced, refugee, and stateless women and 4 girls in humanitarian emergencies, conflict settings, 5 and natural disasters face extreme violence and 6 threats, including—

7 (A) rape and sexual assault;

8 (B) domestic or intimate partner violence;

9 (C) child, early, and forced marriage;

10 (D) trafficking for the purposes of sexual 11 exploitation and forced labor;

12 (E) harmful traditional practices such as 13 female genital mutilation or cutting; and 14 (F) harassment, exploitation, and abuse by 15 humanitarian personnel.

16 (2) Gender-based violence is known to increase 17 during humanitarian emergencies. Violent acts such 18 as intimate partner violence and child marriage that 19 take place during times of stability are often exacer-20 bated during times of crisis.

21 (3) Nearly one in five women report experi-
22 encing sexual violence during a humanitarian emer-
23 gency. For example, according to the United Nations
24 Organization Stabilization Mission in the Demo-
25 cratic Republic of the Congo, there was an increase

1 of 56 percent in reported cases of conflict-related 2 sexual violence between 2016 and 2017.

3 (4) Intimate partner violence is pervasive and 4 becomes increasingly common during times of con-
5 flict and crisis. Residence in a conflict-affected dis-
6 trict is associated with a 50-percent increase in risk 7 of intimate partner violence, and women who have 8 experienced 4–5 cumulative years of conflict are al-
9 most 90 percent more likely to experience such vio-
10 lence than women who are not living in conflict set-11 tings.

12 (5) Child, early, and forced marriages increase 13 during humanitarian crises as tools of last resort to 14 cope with economic hardship and to protect girls 15 from increased violence. Conflict can exacerbate cul-16 tural norms of child, early, and forced marriage or 17 create harmful cultural behaviors where they had 18 not previously existed.

19 (6) Women and girls are especially vulnerable
20 to trafficking during humanitarian crises, particu-
21 larly by non-State armed groups who abduct and 22 traffic women and girls for sexual exploitation, do-23 mestic servitude, and child, early, and forced mar-
24 riage, among other forms of exploitation.

1 (7) Crises create markets for exploitative serv-
2 ices that are too frequently abused by aid workers
3 and peacekeepers, who seek sexual services from dis-
4 placed or vulnerable people. In 2018, the United Na-5 tions received a total of 148 sexual exploitation and 6 abuse allegations directly involving United Nations
7 aid workers, and 111 involving staff from partner
8 organizations implementing United Nations pro-9 grams.

10 (8) According to United Nations High Commis-11 sioner for Refugees, marginalized populations are 12 particularly at risk of gender-based violence in hu-
13 manitarian crises, including adolescent girls, older 14 persons, persons with disabilities, sexual and gender 15 minorities, and female heads of households.

16 (9) Gender-based violence is under-reported, 17 both in times of stability and during crises. While 18 data may not be immediately available in each crisis
19 or conflict, evidence shows that gender-based vio-
20 lence is consistently a major and pressing concern
21 for women and girls facing humanitarian emergency
22 contexts and should be assumed to be a protection 23 concern in all humanitarian planning and risk as-24 sessment.

1 (10) Men and boys play a critical role in pre-
2 venting gender-based violence, and engaging them 3 alongside women and girls in the transformation of 4 gender roles that lead to increased rates of gender-5 based violence at the onset of emergencies leads to 6 lasting results.

7 (11) Survivors of gender-based violence and 8 their families in humanitarian emergencies require 9 immediate, life-saving assistance, including post-rape 10 care or access to other comprehensive medical and 11 psychosocial services, to address the physical, psy-
12 chological, and social impacts of gender-based vio-13 lence. They also require long-term support such as 14 opportunities to earn livelihoods, build skills or re-
15 ceive an education, and access to justice and com-
16 munity-level reintegration. Early medical interven-17 tions after incidents of rape can help to prevent in-18 fections, HIV, and pregnancy.

19 (12) Empowering women to assume leadership 20 roles in delivering humanitarian response and mean-21 ingfully engaging local organizations, including wom-
22 en's rights, humanitarian, advocacy, and service-pro-
23 vider organizations, through training and directed 24 resources to operate in emergency settings and pro-

1 vide life-saving assistance is critical to supporting 2 survivors or those at risk of gender-based violence.

3 (13) The international community has priori-
4 tized addressing the issue of gender-based violence
5 in humanitarian contexts by launching a Global Call
6 to Action on Protection from Gender-Based Violence
7 in Emergencies in 2013, which the United States 8 operationalized through establishing a Safe from the 9 Start initiative, implemented by the Department of 10 State and the United States Agency for Inter-
11 national Development.

12 (14) Safe from the Start aimed to prevent and 13 respond to gender-based violence at the onset of an 14 emergency and to provide resources to strengthen 15 the core capacity of humanitarian assistance imple-16 menters to address gender-based violence at the ear-17 liest phases of an emergency, including through de-18 veloping training, guidelines, toolkits, and other re-
19 sources to guide operations.

20 (15) The Women’s Entrepreneurship and Eco-
21 nomic Empowerment Act (Public Law 115–428) re-
22 quires the United States “to strive to eliminate gen-
23 der-based violence and mitigate its harmful effects 24 on individuals and communities” in its development 25 cooperation policy. Recognizing the need to prevent

1 and respond to gender-based violence globally, Con-2 gress has appropriated $150,000,000 annually from 3 fiscal Years 2013–2019 for this purpose.

4 (16) The United States has further committed
5 to prevention and response to gender-based violence
6 globally through the interagency United States
7 Strategy to Prevent and Respond to Gender-Based 8 Violence Globally, the National Action Plan on 9 Women, Peace, and Security, the U.S. Global Strat-10 egy to Empower Adolescent Girls, U.S. Strategy to 11 Support Women and Girls at Risk from Extremism 12 and Conflict, and the U.S. Government Strategy on 13 Advancing Protection and Care for Children in Ad-14 versity.

15 SEC. 3. STATEMENT OF POLICY.

16 It is the policy of the United States—

17 (1) to take effective action to prevent, mitigate,
18 and respond to gender-based violence in humani-
19 tarian emergencies around the world to promote re-
20 spect for basic human rights and gender equality,
21 economic growth, improved public health, and peace
22 and stability;

23 (2) to systematically integrate and coordinate 24 efforts to prevent and respond to gender-based vio-25 lence in United States foreign policy and foreign as-

1 sistance programs, including conflict prevention, hu-
2 manitarian relief and recovery, and peace-building
3 efforts;

4 (3) to promote accountability and access to jus-
5 tice for acts of gender-based violence;

6 (4) to build local capacity in countries respond-7 ing to humanitarian crises, including the capacity of 8 governments at all levels and nongovernmental orga-
9 nizations, especially women-led organizations, to pre-10 vent, mitigate, and respond to gender-based violence;

11 (5) to consult, cooperate, coordinate, and col-
12 laborate with a wide variety of nongovernmental 13 partners and international organizations, including 14 women-led organizations, when designing and imple-
15 menting humanitarian response programs;

16 (6) to support activities that prevent and miti-
17 gate the impacts of gender-based violence in humani-18 tarian settings and that empower survivors or those 19 at risk of gender-based violence, including through 20 economic opportunities, access to education and 21 skills building, and promotion of women's leadership 22 and participation in humanitarian response;

23 (7) to ensure that international organizations
24 and nongovernmental organizations receiving fund-25 ing from the United States have the capacity and in-

1 ternal protocols to identify gender-based violence, in-2 cluding sexual exploitation and abuse committed by 3 humanitarian personnel, integrate gender-based vio-
4 lence prevention and response initiatives into policies 5 and programs, and report regularly on efforts to 6 prevent and respond to gender-based violence;

7 (8) to employ a multisectoral approach to pre-
8 venting and responding to gender-based violence
9 globally, including through activities in the eco-10 nomic, education, health, protection, nutrition, and 11 legal sectors;

12 (9) to ensure protection against sexual exploi-
13 tation and abuse by and against humanitarian ac-14 tors; and

15 (10) to include the active leadership and par-
16 ticipation of women and girls in humanitarian pro-17 gram design, implementation, and evaluation.
