Dear Mr. Looney:

The New Mexico Office of the Attorney General is in receipt of your correspondence. Your concern has been delivered to the Advocacy and Intervention Division, which is the primary point of contact for anyone seeking to interact with the Office.

Per New Mexico law, the NMOAG is only authorized to provide legal advice and representation to the State of New Mexico, state agencies, and state officials acting in their official capacity. While we would like to be responsive to requests from others, given this office's limited statutory authorization, it would not be appropriate for this office to provide legal advice to you.

We encourage constituents to voice their opinions and share their concerns. Thank you for contacting the New Mexico Office of the Attorney General.

Sincerely,

Advocacy and Intervention Division
